The Year in Review 1991

Strange.

That, perhaps, is the most accurate description that can be applied to Carmel for the year that was.

It was a time that began with a locally unpopular war in the Persian Gulf, which saw a peace gathering (shades of the '60s) in Devendorf Park.

But that conflict, thank God, proved to be short-lived.

Long after our troops came home, however, the city council continued to war within itself. In fact, the hallmark of this council could be its inability to bury the hatchet and compromise — members, instead, choose to cling to their views no matter how they may be dividing the community at-large.

In early spring, the floor area ratio conflict pitted homeowners against just about everyone, as the council deferred to a public vote on whether to allow home sizes to grow by a few feet. A popular vote went against the council majority, but battle scars remained.

Next up on the council's agenda was the seemingly never-ending saga regarding the mayor's ability to appoint members to the planning commission. Month after month the show dragged on. Eventually public interest waned, as longtime political observers expressed embarrassment at the council's actions. This conflict, too, was finally rectified. What price glory?

This year also marked a time when Carmel, thought by many to be insulated from the rest of the world, experienced the nationwide recession.

The bright side this year, however, was the fantastic 75 birthday party staged by residents determined to provide something for everyone — they did.

Sit back and enjoy the year in review.

ONE OF the many volunteers in the city's 75th anniversary barbecue was Deborah Alexander of the CBA.

January

Carmel business owners are mailed a questionnaire concerning the commercial district. To be published in a commercial district zoning study later in the year, the questions concern success strategies, size, location, rent provisions, inventory, quality of work force, government regulations and future plans.

The study is in response to numerous rezone requests and appeals before the planning commission and city council.

Carmel Unified School District officials stress the importance of a myriad of much needed capital improvements to the aging district, while moving an upcoming parcel tax election back from March to June.

Officials estimate the cost for capital improvements to be more than $3.5 million.

Less than a week before filing a county application for the $125 million Point Lobos Ranch, the project's principal players announce they are still seeking an alternative to construction of the 240-room hotel complex.

Point Lobos officials meet with neighbors, Big Sur Land Trust, Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District and state Department of Parks and Recreation to iron out a plan.

A preliminary finding by the city's ad hoc parking committee finds that the value of a parking space downtown is valued at $306,000.

Environmentalist Noel Mapstead files a lawsuit seeking to bar the release of the long-awaited final environmental impact report for the Hatton Canyon freeway.

The city council approves remodeling plans for the relocated First Murphy House.

Under a dark cloud of threatened lawsuits and semantic differences, county supervisors prohibiting drilling new wells within the county water resource system.

The ordinance works in concert with with water district in banning new water connections on the Carmel River, Seaside and Fort Ord during drought conditions.

Concessions at Poppy Hills Golf Course are taken over by a private caterer for the AT&T, much to the chagrin of the Carmel Youth Center.

In other words, no Bingmobiles and a likely loss of about $10,000 in youth center revenues.

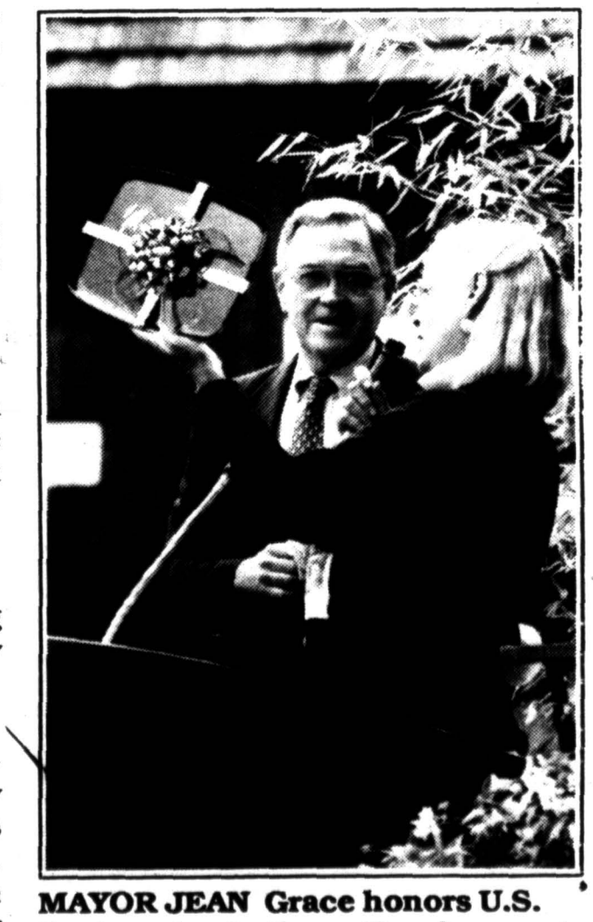
A survey of local residents indicates that most are depressed by recent events in the Persian Gulf.

ONE OF the highlights of the anniversary celebration was the old-times barbeque at Sunset Center, presided over here by Mayor Jean Grace.



MAYOR JEAN Grace honors U.S. Postmaster Anthony Frank as part of the city's 75th anniversary.

Meanwhile, Rep. Leon Panetta tells Congress that the war will adversely affect the nation's economy.

The recession hits home in Carmel, where declining revenues have forced city officials to delay several capital projects and implement a hiring freeze.

A projected $233,402 shortfall for the first six months of the fiscal year.

The principal culprit: steady decline in hostelry tax.

Meanwhile, innkeepers dedicate $11,000 toward a public relations campaign.

Carmel's transient rental ordinance heads for appeals court, with both sides convinced they will prevail.

The water district informs the public that if the drought continues a 40-percent rationing will be imposed.

February

Staff, parents and students at Children's Experimental Theater meet with psychologists after an instructor at the school is charged with child molestation.

Staff member Norman Lee Stottmeister, 30, pleads innocent to 28 charges of sexual abuse with boys ages 13-17, who were enrolled at the school between 1987-90.

Popular CUSD Supt. Bob Infelise announces he will retire from his position come August, citing career opportunities as his reasoning.

The board unofficially names current assistant superintendent Vance Baldwin as the new leader of the district.

Debate heats up in the city over the upcoming FAR election.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature and must be typed or legibly hand-printed. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters, or those with no phone numbers will not be accepted.

Preservation effort

Dear Editor:

What a treat to watch the final coats of paint being applied to the First Murphy, as the surrounding park begins to materialize. I wonder if the naysayers, who initially felt that this lovely remnant of Carmel's past wasn't worth saving, feel differently now?

To those who are concerned about the city's donation of land, and the erosion of property values due to expenditures for the park rather than street maintenance, I would advance the idea that these amenities, and the community spirit that brings them to fruition, are the very things that make Carmel a special place to live and visit, enhancing property values and generating revenues that are perhaps well beyond the amounts expended.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if one of the Comstock Doll Houses, up for sale and falling into disrepair, could ultimately be "adopted" and preserved by a similar effort?

Doing his part to help

Dear Editor:

Recently, I have seen an older gentleman picking up trash along Carmel Valley Road. He parks his green Jaguar in the vicinity of Rancho Canada and cleans up the garbage that inconsiderate drivers throw out of their car windows.

I would like to extend my personal thanks to this man who, instead of sitting at home, is doing his part to help maintain the beauty of this area. What a joy it is to know that there is someone out there who is concerned about the future of this gorgeous area we call home!

Again, thank you sir, for your contribution.

Brainwashed groups

Dear Editor:

How can so many organizations be so wrong? The Sierra Club, the Hatton Canyon Coalition, the Carmel City Council, the City of Pacific Grove, and the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District have all been vociferous in opposing the alternate Hatton Canyon freeway. Maybe it's because they overlap each other and find comfort in belonging to the same crowd.

To them, I dedicate the following poem, which I think describes them well:

Brainwashing
Repeat and repeat till they say what you are saying.
Repeat and repeat till they are helpless before your repetitions.
Say it over and over till their brains can only hold what you are saying.
Repeat it soft, yell it and yell it, change to a whisper, always in repeats.
Come back to it day on day, hour after hour,
Till they say what you tell them to say.
To wash A B C out of a brain and replace it
With X Y Z — this is it.

It's an old poem that I dug out of an old book. Sorry, I can't claim it to be mine.

Joseph Noto, D.D.S.

Kudos to the post office

Dear Editor:

Please say Happy New Year or any greeting of your choice with thank you for your excellent service. Thank you is one of the most important words in the English language and will be appreciated by those behind the counter of: Crossroads Post Office, Carmel Valley Post Office, and Carmel-by-the-Sea Post Office.

I have lived in four cities. The post offices mentioned are the most kind, helpful and understanding I have ever found in any area in the places where I have lived.

Avoiding the answer

Dear Editor:

With regard to the Carmel City Council's resolve to widen Highway 1, I asked them to answer the following questions. Their reply avoided answering any of them.

How long do you think it will take to convince all responsible agencies it is the thing to do?

How long do you think it will take to complete all the required bureaucratic and environmental processes?

What is the source of funding you believe will be available?

The council's refusal to answer these essential questions, confirms my belief that either they are mindless of, or indifferent to, the time it would take to accomplish their goal.

Caltrans originally estimated it would take 32 months to complete the environmental process for the Hatton Canyon by-pass of Highway 1. It began in January 1984 and nine years later, on Dec. 12, 1991, it ended when the California Transportation Commission voted unanimously to adopt the final environmental impact statement and file the notice of determination.

Referring to this process at the Carmel City Council meeting, the mayor of Carmel made this remark, "Make them do the whole thing over."

Incredulous: Could it be that they just don't care?

Holiday deadlines

Because of the holidays, deadlines for the Carmel Pine Cone have been changed.

For the Jan. 2, 1992 issue of the Pine Cone, deadlines are as follows:

Editorial ..... Noon Friday, Dec. 27
Classified/Legals ..... 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 27
Display Advertising ..... 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 27

Pine Cone offices will be closed for Christmas from Monday, Dec. 23 through Thursday, Dec. 26 and will reopen for business at 8 a.m. on Friday, Dec. 27. In addition the office will be closed on Wednesday, Jan. 1, reopening for business at 8 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 2. For more information, please call 624-0162.

City offers tree disposal service

Carmel-by-the-Sea's Forest and Beach Department would like to assist residents with the disposal of their holiday trees. On Jan. 4th, trees delivered to the entrance of Mission Trail Park on Rio Road will be converted to mulch by city staff. Disposing of trees in this manner is a great opportunity to recycle a product by converting it into another usable material.

Don't have a way to get your tree to Mission Trail Park? Just call 624-3543, and if you live within the city limits, the Friends of Carmel Forest will come to your home and take your tree away. You must call by Jan. 2nd for this service.

All trees must be stripped of decorations and any metal, such as, nails and tensile. They will be accepted for mulching between 8 a.m. and noon on Jan. 4th.

The issue, which would allow for increased building on lots, has bitterly divided the city into warring camps as the March 5 election nears.

A peace rally is scheduled for Devendorf Park on Feb. 16, as locals rally against the war in the Persian Gulf.

The date coincides with a national date which peace groups across the country are calling for a national mobilization for peace.

In a move reflective of the tough times, the city pledges $15,000 to the business community to help woo tourists to Carmel.

The money will be used to produce a generic brochure, with varying factions of the cultural and business community buying back the brochures at cost from the city.

The suit seeks a permanent injunction and $1.5 million in damages for noise and stray bullets from the club.

Longtime peninsula music-lover Ruth Fenton succumbs to cancer.

H

Torrential rainfall leads the Carmel River to the see for the first time in four years.

Flowing at a brisk 500 cubic feet per second, the river quickly replenished the barren aquifer, which provides the lion's share of water to area wells.

Almost 5 inches of rain is dropped on the peninsula during the month, prompting many water officials to declare an end to rationing.

Before the March Miracle, the area had received only 30 percent of its normal rainfall.

Two public agencies file grievances against the county for opening a passage-way to the ocean from the Carmel River.

The agencies agree that the action was needed to prevent flooding, but say the proper channels were not followed.

H

The U.S. Post Office contracts Mail mart to offer service on weekends.

April

The city council makes it official and approves a 45 percent FAR, which puts it in line with the majority of citizens.

The action more or less brings to a close a controversial and contentious chapter in the city's history.

Clint Eastwood's proposal to renovate a portion of his Mission Ranch wins approval before county supervisors.

Carmel Police Officer Phil Lunsford is vindicated by a county Municipal Court judge for making traffic stops on eight people accused of drunken driving.

The defendants, who all tested above the legal limit for blood alcohol when stopped, had sought to surpress evidence on grounds that there had been insufficient basis to make the initial traffic stop.

To no one's surprise the nationwide recession has hit Carmel right in its pocket book, with dipping sales tax leading the way for the local economy to slow to a crawl..

Revenues dealing with construction, building permits and commercial stall permits are anticipated to decline by $42, 750, according to city staff. Moreover, a drop in interest rates, the income generated by the city's investment portfolio, is expected to decline by $100,000.

Changes in state law have also affected Carmel, with the cigarette tax anticipated to decline by $12,925 and fine and forfeiture monies expected to ebb by $2, 210, both reflecting a 50 percent drop over last year.

To that end, the Carmel City Council last week adopted a revised $8,139,038 biennial budget to see its way through the 1992 fiscal year, $8,472, 945, or 4 percent less than the forecast last year.

After hearing almost two hours of impassioned please during a hearing this week, county supervisors unanimously approved a walking trail that skirts the north side of Mission Ranch on Dolores Street and 15th Avenue.

In denying the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District's request for a coastal access management plan to study the most effective way to lead hikers from Pacific Grove to Carmel, supervisors paved the way for renovation at Clint Eastwood's resort.

The Monterey County Planning Commission gave the project final approval Aug. 4, but work could not begin while the appeal process took place.

"This project provides public access by definition of its use," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, referring tot he restaurant and motel patrons. "There is (public access) now and there will be in the future."

Carmel's neighborhoods.

On trial, was a transient rental ordinance approved by the Carmel City Council in 1989, which bans rentals of less than 30 days in the R-1 district. About 300 short-term rental homes are affected by the ordinance, which carries a maximum fine of $500 a day.

The decision was lauded by Carmel officials, who in 1981 were unsuccessful in attempting to pass similar legislation. "The city is pleased," said City Attorney Don Freeman. "What the court did is to ratify Carmel's sense of community., It really preserves the integrity of our single-family residential zone."

Water district comes up with third site for possible desalination plant

By FRANK GEORGE

WHILE SPENDING $367,000 on two other desalination plant sites, the water district quietly came up with a third potential location for the novel project.

This newest prospect puts desal study totals at $431,000, although locals have yet to give desal the official go-ahead. Unlike the Moss Landing and Marina locations, a Sand City site would fall within district boundaries, giving it new advantages, district staffers say.

"It enables us to use our power of eminent domain if we have to," said Margo Nottenkamper, associate project coordinator for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. That means the district can choose to condemn private land in order to pursue a desalination project.

Nottenkamper said condemnation powers can also be a boon for landowners who are forced to sell.

"What it does is give property owners a tax benefit in selling under the threat of condemnation," she explained. The project coordinator said three sites east and west of Highway 1 are on the table. Serious negotiations won't take place until the project is approved by the public, but staffers are already talking with landowners.

That green light could click on next June 2. The water board will direct staffers to draft a ballot for the question at its January 27 meeting. If peninsulans approve the idea, the district will move forward with a final design next summer.

So far, EIP Associates of San Francisco is preparing EIRs for the three sites and Walnut Creek's James M. Montgomery Engineers is doing preliminary design work.

In the meantime, localites Staal, Gardner and Dunne are investigating potential seawater intake locations.

The district has been thinking of building a desalination plant to augment the water supply since November, 1990. Originally, seven sites around the peninsula were explored.

But the PG&E power plant in Moss Landing and the Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency (MRWPCA) plant, which is northeast of Marina, were deemed the two best locations. Nottenkamper said all three locations have advantages and disadvantages.

The PG&E power plant has an existing intake system and it "wouldn't stick out like a sore thumb next to a utility facility," she said. Nonetheless, a 14 and-a-half mile pipeline paralleling Highway 1 would be needed to bring desalted water from Moss Landing to Cal-Am distribution systems in Seaside.

Meanwhile, the MRWPCA location requires a pipeline from Marina to Seaside, a distance of only seven miles. It also "has a very nice parcel available for the plant," Nottenkamper said, adding that it has an existing discharge system for brine disposal as well.

In addition, Ranney collectors could be used on MRWPCA and Sand City grounds. Nottenkamper said these devices are particularly advantageous because the salty water is filtered through sand, and pretreatment equipment is not needed.

Yet all three sites would be similar in total cost. Although "only a mile or two" of pipe would be needed to pump water from Sand City to Seaside, six miles would be needed to send Sand City brine up to MRWPCA disposal lines.

The Sand City and MRWPCA Ranney collector systems would have $1.5 million price tags, while their raw-water pipelines would add additional costs. No capital cost figures are out on the Sand City project yet, but an MRWPCA plant would cost roughly $34 million to build.

Conversely, the Moss Landing desalination plant's pre-treatment equipment would total $3 million, and the overall price would be $41 million.

Carmel's neighborhoods.

On trial, was a transient rental ordinance approved by the Carmel City Council in 1989, which bans rentals of less than 30 days in the R-1 district. About 300 short-term rental homes are affected by the ordinance, which carries a maximum fine of $500 a day.

The decision was lauded by Carmel officials, who in 1981 were unsuccessful in attempting to pass similar legislation. "The city is pleased," said City Attorney Don Freeman. "What the court did is to ratify Carmel's sense of community., It really preserves the integrity of our single-family residential zone."

If the crowd that packed in to hear the Carmel Residents Association (CRA) Forum on Thursday, Nov. 7 were looking for a brawl, they were sorely disappointed.

The forum was held at the Carmel Woman's Club, and the five guest speakers representing various aspects of the residential and business sectors of the city were sedate. In fact, they showed much greater restraint than most would have expected, said Jim Holiday, President of CRA.

The forum was designed to present problems facing the community and open discussion for possible solutions. Holiday said the forum was not to be a debate but, an opportunity to think together and stimulate ideas with diversity.

Regional land-use planning is neither a conspiracy nor a radical plan to increase central government. It is merely an idea whose time has come, according to state Assemblyman Sam Farr.

Farr, who has penned one of four pending state bills (two in the Assembly and as many, in the Senate) tackling rampant growth, told the Pine Cone urban sprawl is threatening the state's quality of life.

"We all have to live in California," he said, "If we are going to keep California from sprawling into one big amoeba we will have to set some tough rules."

Farr's bill would see a state planning agency preparing a comprehensive plan, while the other legislation suggests planning via a growth management commission, governor-mandated plan or state-run regional planning districts.

The British are coming. The British are coming.

That would be A British Holiday, a joint effort between the Carmel Business Association (CBA) and British Consulate, scheduled to take place between Dec.. 6-15.

The CBA describes Carmel as "the perfect setting to feature the foods, music and cultural diversity of the British Isles."

December

Robert Preston played The Music Man on Broadway. From now on, Carmel Mayor Jean Grace respectfully could be call The Music Woman.

At her request, Carmel council members will consider a new ordinance at their regular session—local legislation knocking out the 52-year-old- ban on live music in commercial sites that serve alcohol.

The existing law blocks not only live music at those establishments, but also live entertainment in general and public dances as well as jukeboxes. It was enacted in 1939 after artists lobbied for quietude.

The city's 75th Anniversary celebration continues with a self-guided Walking Tour of the Hertiage Trees of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

The guide is a pocket-size brief history of the "village in a forest" and a listing of outstanding trees and groups of trees.

The guide is cooperatively sponsored by the Carmel-by-the-Sea 75th Anniversary Celebration Committee and Friends of Carmel Forest.

Weary from political battle, Carmel Mayor Jean Grace has opted not to seek re-election next April.

Grace told The Pine Cone Tuesday that constantly fighting the Carmel Residents Association on critical issues has taken its toll.

"The CRA is relentless," said Grace, who is in the minority on the council with Councilman Bob Fischer. "They won't forgive you for anything. Those people refuse to be gracious enough to be civil; it's hard for me to understand that type of pettiness."

THE CARMEL Police Officers Association held its annual luncheon last week at Ruby's Kitchen to celebrate its successful Seniors Helping Seniors Program. In attendance were Mayor Jean Grace and councilmembers Barbara Brooks and Ken White. (Pete Poitras photo.)

New playground at Tularcitos

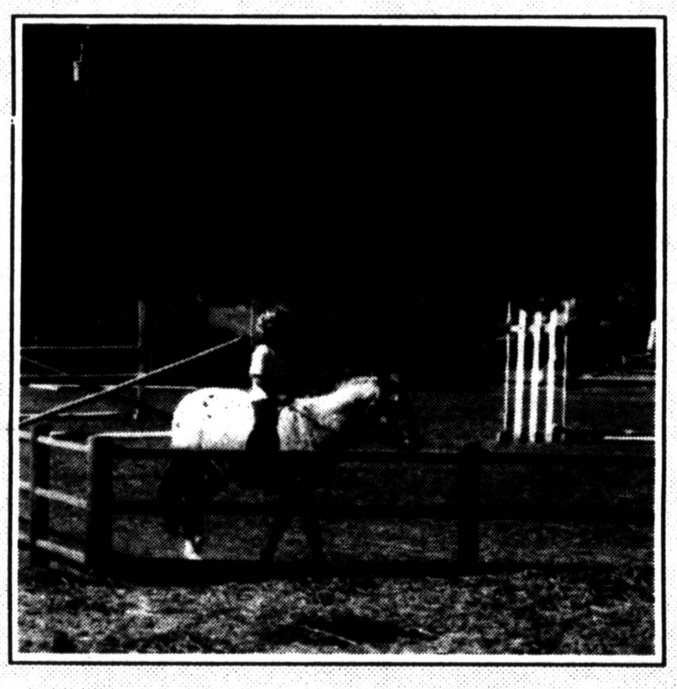
AHHHHHHHHHH, ANOTHER wonderful Christmas but it's hard to believe that it came and went so fast. So often the topic of conversation is stress during these Holidays times, rather than peace and love. Hopefully, we can all relax and put into motion what the Holidays are truly all about.

Beth Lawn and Jenn Simmons, teachers at Tularcitos Elementary School, really know what the feeling of giving is all year round. The two of them were given "mentorships" with Jack Evans, a world renown expert in the field of psychology and physical education. Along with his help and the support of Karin Camilli, Principal, Beth and Jenn created a design for "color-izing" the playground. Parents came from all over to help with the project, and with paint brushes in hand, created a whole new world for the children of Carmel Valley.

"You just wouldn't believe the difference in the attitudes of the children at recess. We have no more behavior problems because the kids are so busy creating new games of their own," said Beth Lawn. There is a huge map of the United States, including Hawaii and Alaska and the kids have developed games to help them learn geography. The Parents Club of Tularcitos recently donated more money towards the project and now they intend to paint a world map so the children can expand their horizons even larger.

There are hundreds of persons in the community who spend a great deal of their time "giving." Another special person is Marta Bennett of Mid-Valley. Marta recently had a baby boy, Alexander, and when she heard that the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center was in the middle of a campaign to raise funds for its much needed renovation, she called and asked what she could do to help. Thanks to Marta and Alexander, the Community Center will be beautiful by Spring and have fantastic landscaping around a new stage. The Community Center will be going through tremendous physical changes over the next few years and thanks to our many volunteers and contributors, the dream is going to become a reality. Thank you all for your giving spirit and sense of what Christmas and community are all about.

WALTER HELMS, a Carmel Valley resident, is determined to keep in shape, and at the same time the valley is starting to look better too.



THE TACK Box Equestrian Decathlon will be held on Sunday, Dec. 29 at the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club at 85 East Garzas Road off Boranda Road in Carmel Valley.

The event is a fund-raiser for the California Horse Adoption and Protection Society (CHAPS).

Fee are $25 per day or $8 per class. Checks should be made out to the Tack Box. No pre-registration required, just sign up at the show.

For more information call the Tack Box in Carmel at 625-3665.

Resident gives something back to Carmel Valley

By SUSAN BECK

YOU PROBABLY don't know Walter Helms, but it's likely that you've heard about or seen him.

He's the man who parks his green Jaguar on the side of Carmel Valley Road, them painstakingly, inch by inch, picks up the trash that people have discarded.

The Carmel Valley resident said, "I thought I'd do it because it keeps me out of pool halls."

All kidding aside, picking up the trash along the side of the highway is a way to do something useful for the community, and at the same time help Helms rehabilitate from four major operations.

After back surgery, two knee replacements, and a shoulder operation, Helms' mainstay for keeping in shape is walking.

It all started while he was cleaning up the trash that people throw out of their cars into his yard on Canada Road. The more he picked up, the more there was. He just couldn't ignore how trashy the other areas nearby were, and his point of reference grew.

"I drive into town or the village at least two times a day, and I've noticed it all the time. I bring quests down, and I always think, 'I should do something'," said Helms.

Every other day, for two or three hours, using his baggage carrier that he converted into a portable trash container, Helms, cleans up Carmel Valley Road.

Apparently, there is no county program to do his job. However, Helms said that he was told by the Monterey County Public Works Department that they are planning to start a program soon.

"You don't see so much when you drive by, but you'd be surprised how many beer cans, cigarette butts, and paper is out there," said Helms.

He said the best find to date is $10. "Someone made a mistake and threw out the wrong thing. I don't know why people do it. It's so easy to keep it in the car. There's a fine for littering, but no one ever gets a ticket."

During the course of his "trash picking" Helms walks about one or two miles. This helps his rehab program, which starts early every morning at the Carmel Fitness Center.

He said that he wishes more people in the valley would get interested in cleaning up the area, but he understands that some people might have a problem with having others see them along the road, picking up trash.

"Maybe someone driving by thinks I'm crazy, but I don't mind," said Helms.

Others don't mind either. All of his seven children approve of their father's endeavor. And, John Pais, another Carmel Valley resident, brings Helms a big cup of coffee as he make his rounds, plus several times while he is working, someone will drive by honk, and wave.

Helms said that all of his children went through the school system here, and this is one way to give something back to the community.

PS: Helms found a skateboard. Just describe it, and it's yours. Call 624-4463.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Holiday menus

"TIS THE season" is often a challenge when holiday entertaining requires the creation of a lot of different menus. Traditions mixed with new twists for formal and informal gatherings. I find I live dangerously during this festive time because I am always trying new dishes on guests and say a silent prayer they turn out. If you are the adventurous cook take the creative risk everybody learns and most often it is worth it. I would like to share the process I go through so you can dream up your own creative holiday menus.

Of course, I thumb through the food magazines, newspapers and my cookbooks hoping to be inspired, waiting for the internal light bulb to go on. But, I also make a list from my produce calendar of what is in season in December such as: apples, bananas, broccoli, mushrooms and parsley, brussel sprouts, cauliflower, celery, chestnuts, coconuts, and now add the cranberry, along with grapefruit, oranges, pears, persimmons, and tangerines, the root vegetables—parsnips, rutabagas, sweet potatoes, yams, and turnips. I try to narrow down the items that one identifies with the holidays.

My next task is to think visually so naturally red and green come to mind. Thank goodness we can get most anything all year round such as red and green bell peppers, spinach and tomatoes, strawberries, raspberries and mint, etc.

Next, free association nostalgia—braided wreaths, partridge in a pear tree, yule logs, mistletoe, old fashioned decorated fragrant pine trees, nutcrackers and roasting chestnuts, colored boxes and bags with papers and ribbons, Dickens carolers, angels, stockings and candy canes fireside wassails and eggnogs.

To pull these lists and images together is the fun part. For hors d'oeuvres and receptions try using cookie cutters for croutons to use with your favorite spreads pate or smoked salmon. The red and green jalapeno jellies are tasty on cream cheese. If you make bread try braiding your dough and make it look like a wreath, or using scissors cut your individual breads to look like pine cones, before baking.

Soups, sauces and vegtable combinations can be read and green. I had made a ying-yang soup of asparagus and snow peas on one side with a thick red bell pepper and tomato puree in the other half of the bowl, floating a top was a wreath pf mashed potatoes piped with a pastry bag and browned under the broiler.

An entree of a partridge presented in puff pastry dough cut in the shape of a pear (or tree, etc.) with a melange of carmelized pearl onions, chestnuts, brussel sprouts, pears poached in a port wine served with a sauce of the wine and sauteed vegetable juices. (Note: partridges can be purchased through a wholesaler, Durham Nightbird just south of San Francisco. Perhaps your butcher can order them for you. To purchase puff pastry ask your bakery if they will sell you some of their supply.)

Salad ideas of spinach and radicchio, or red and green cabbage. Red and green bell peppers cooked, chopped or pureed. Cherry tomatoes are great too.

And the finishing touches of persimmon puddings or sorbets. Christmas cut out cookies decorated as stained-glass windows. Chocolate mocha yule logs with chocolate bark and meringue mushrooms, served with eggnog ice cream. Or make puff pastry boxes resembling presents filled with your favorite mousse or ice cream.

Take the risk, have fun and let your imagination run wild. Happy holidays and for further help on where to buy the unusual food please write me at P. O. Box 221940, Carmel, 93921.

(Editor's Note: Wendy Brodie, currently executive chef at Rancho San Carlos, has an extensive background as a chef on the peninsula, serving with such establishments as Simpson's, Cambridge Plan International, John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, Stonepine, and Rio Grill. She is a graduate of the prestigious California Culinary Academy, is a member of the American Culinary Federation, Les Toques Blanche, Confrerie de la Chaine de Rotisseurs, Knights of the Vine, American Institute of Wine & Food, is a past president of the Monterey Peninsula Chef's Association and was named as that organization's 1982's Chef of the Year. She will offer her culinary wisdom to Carmel Pine Cone readers every other week.)

Coast & Country

By Barbara March

Sign of the times

NOTE: IT was 1915. Americans watched tensely as Europe became immersed in WW I. A German submarine had sunk the Lusitania off the coast of Ireland drowning 114 Americans. At home, American bankers, organized by J.P. Morgan, made the largest loan to date; $500,000,000 to the British and French governments. The Panama-Pacific International Exposition opened in San Francisco and D.W. Griffith's Birth of a Nation opened in Los Angeles. Vice President Thomas R. Marshall coined the quote, "What this country needs is a good 5-cent cigar." Carmel was feeling smug about itself and was on its way to incorporation. This poem ran in the Dec. 22, 1915 edition of the Carmel Pine Cone. Read it aloud.

DE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS
by Hobo Poet

"T'was de night before Chris'mas an' out on de pike Not a rattler was stirrin' de 'boes had t' hike. De glims in de winders was shinin' an' bright De yaps all was happy dat clear winter night.

Wid all kinds of good t'ings a stuffin' deir gills, Dey boddered deir nuts not a bit wid our ills; W'lle out on de Pennsy, from skypiece t' shank, De 'boes all was freezin' wid no Christ t' t'ank.

Not a t'ing we'd been chewin' de whole livin' day, Not a sign of a handout had moseyed our way; But de cold, chillin' breezes was buttin' in right An' handin' us plenty o' shivers dat night.

Poor Slim, an' Canary, an Idaho Dick, Wid bread baskets em'ty, was feelin' some sick; An' poor little W'eezy, from down Ham'shire way, Wid bowed head was settin', wid nottin' t' say.

De bunch sure was grumpy an' kickin' deir luck, An' t'inkin' o' Chris'mas widout any chuck, A t'inkin' of geezers - jes bums like oursel's - Wid heat in deir hangouts an' grub on deir shel's.

INTERNATIONAL WINE & FOOD SOCIETY

The Rev. Gaskins from the Seaside Christian Memorial Church and his gospel choir came to Pebble Beach for a cultural exchange with the International Wine & Food Society. Christmas dinner co-chair Dennis LeVett watched their faces as the conservative members of the local chapter of the IWFS clapped hands or politely stared while the Reverend Gaskins pounded the upright piano, proclaimed that "Jesus is the reason for the season," and sang along with his group.

The spirituals, "Blessed Be the Rock," and "Get Your House In Order" (fitting ditties for Pebble Beach Company) were not familiar to the old guard, except for one Texan but Rev. Gaskins' mission is to spread the word. When he moved into the familiar strains of "Silent Night" moved society members were moved to sing along.

LeVett broadened the horizons of the IWFS once before, when he moved the Christmas dinner from its traditional sight at The Beach & Tennis Club to the Pine Inn for a Dickens Christmas, one of the few times the group had celebrated the holiday outside the Pebble Beach gate.

The local chapter of the International Wine & Food Society was founded 35 years ago by locals that included the Robert Stantons, the Alan Griffins and Gallatin Powers who followed the precepts of the original society which began 100 years ago in London.

Honorary founder Virginia Stanton described the first local members as "a convivial group of people who loved to cook." They gathered at each other's homes but the group got so big they moved the dinners to restaurants on the peninsula.

Today's International Wine & Food Society is still a convivial group but now they value their privacy. There is no fund raising, only fun raising. No press releases, only the release they feel after spending an evening in each other's company. All 136 of their dinners have been "off the record" and execept for the annual summer picnic, black tie. They are very select in admitting new members and the criteria for membership is purposefully vague, but centered around a love for good food, good wine and good company.

Women who belong with their husbands don't have a say, but don't seem to mind. One woman said the society was one tradition that you can count on. She said no one talks about what goes on at the dinners and people can be themselves. They know they can relax. Off the record.

But they are keeping their eye on the mischevious Mr. LeVett. Rumor has it he's reserved the entire dining room at Miller's in Arroyo Seco for next year's Christmas bash.

Feliz Navidad.

LUCILLE Huntington, the first woman to have a vote on the all- male International Society of Food & Wine Board of Governors, is proud of her niece Claire Huntington. Claire, a freshman at RLS recently won a basketball award. Young Claire accepted her trophy, looked at the ones the boys got and asked, "Why is mine smaller?"

CHARLOTTE Knollin of Burlingame won the grand finale prize of the week-long "British Holiday" in Carmel, a round-trip for two to London on British Airways and a Brit Rail Pass. Charlotte read about the "British Holiday" in the San Francisco Chronicle and came to Carmel to do her Christmas shopping. She purchased her ticket at the inn where she stayed.

Christmas changes

AS THE years go by and I get older, it seems to be more of a challenge to get into the Christmas spirit. Family traditions seem to be tossed by the wayside as school and non-school activities become more demanding.

Personally, this year's Christmas spirit has been put on hold until Dec. 20th and some of my family's quaint Christmas traditions have been radically changed in the interest of time and energy. Our family Christmas tree is an example of a "lost" tradition.

For as long as I can remember, my sister and I begin harassing our parents around Dec. 10th about getting a tree. When our dad has finally had enough, everyone gets into the car and we drive to Prunedale or up the coast to Pescadero for a tree. My mom drags everyone around the lot looking for our ideal tree, tagging prospective trees by sticking Kleenex in their limbs. Inevitably, we chose the one closest to the car. When the tree is brought home, we drag the ornaments out of the closet and decorate that night.

This year, however, was a totally different story. My dad and sister went to a neighborhood grocery store tree lot and bought our Christmas tree while my mom stayed home and graded term papers and I was at school working on the yearbook. The whole transaction took all of 15 minutes and involved only two members of the family.

Usually, by this time in December, I've bought a couple of presents for my family and friends. This year, I've got one gift that I ordered a month ago.

The night before the last day of school is usually spent making Christmas cards for friends and putting ribbon on candy canes. This year I'll be studying madly for three important tests on the final day before vacation begins.

I had a quick flash of Christmas spirit at the end of November. My boss where I work asked me if, during my shift, I would decorate the store some. So I merrily curled silver, green, and red mylar ribbon while humming along with the Christmas songs playing on the CD player. I thoroughly enjoyed making the store as festive as I could.

Since then, however, my Christmas spirit has been smothered by tests, homework, and various deadlines. Even Christmas lights haven't been a huge priority this year. The lights along the front of the house were quietly put up one day after school by my dad, who was probably doing it to get a break from correcting the never-ending flow of papers.

My mom and I, in years past, enjoyed putting lights around my second story deck. This year, she's been "snowed" under with work and I haven't been home long enough from yearbook and all to even find where we misplaced last year's lights.

As time marches on and the years fly by, I hope that I can regain some missing traditions and get some spirit back into my Christmas.

Ballroom dance classes plus dinner offered every week

The Hidden Valley Dance Center is offering ballroom dance classes every Sunday from 5-6 p.m. and 6-7 p.m. at the center on Carmel Valley Road just before the village. A light dinner follows the classes. The cost per couple is $30 and reservations are required. For more information call 659-3115.

THE OBJECT OF BEAUTY

Jake and Tina (Malkovich and Andie MacDowell) are a sexy, jet-setting couple, madly in love and living far beyond their means in a posh London hotel. Confronting a lifestyle-and-death situation, they plot the phony theft of Tina's prize sculpture to collect insurance.

Unfortunately, Jake and Tina aren't the only crooks in London. When a real thief snatches the sculpture, the lovers immediately suspect each other of a double cross. The accusations fly and the investigations go into high gear, leading to a hilarious predicament of mix-ups and mayhems!

TRAVELERS IN NEED FIND "ROOM AT THE INN"

A warm bed and peace of mind await travelers seeking emergency lodging during the holidays, where there is again "Room at the Inn" at the Doubletree Hotel Monterey.

As in the last four years, the Doubletree Hotel will offer free, short-term accommodations for families and individuals traveling from out of town to visit loved ones in unfortunate circumstances. To meet these needs, the Doubletree has established partnerships with community service agencies including Catholic Social Services, the Family Resource Center, the Salvation Army and YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula. These agencies determine individuals' and families' eligibility for "Room at the Inn" assistance, evaluating each case on an individual basis, and refer them to the Doubletree where they may stay for up to seven nights without charge. The program will run through New Year's Eve.

"In the spirit of giving, the Doubletree Hotel is reaching out to help the less fortunate during this special time of year," said Dan Brown, director of marketing. "Our hotel is a part of the community, and this is one way we can show appreciation and concern."

Doubletree Hotels began "Room at the Inn" after discovering an ever-increasing need for the community service and widened the scope of the program each year to fill that need. Doubletree has now established the program as an annual holiday tradition that will be presented as a gift to all the communities where the upscale hotels are located.

Teen girls support group gathers

The YWCA Women's Center presents a teen girls support group for girls age 15 to 18.

Are you a teen or the parent of a young woman who is searching for answers or solutions to problems in her life?

This is a group for teen girls who:

• Want to learn how not to act out negative behaviors, and instead how to express their feelings in appropriate and effective ways.

• Want to learn how to make the right choices and be accepted for who they really are.

In this support group we will explore ways in which you can:

Improve your relationship with yourself and others. Increase opportunities for success in school and at work. Develop the courage to live your own reality and be yourself. Discover your life goals and find ways to achieve them.

The teen girls support group will meet at the YWCA in Monterey where a safe, supportive and confidential environment will allow participants to express themselves freely. The group will begin 4 to 5:30 p.m. every Wednesday for 10 weeks. Cost is $50.

Space is limited. For more information or reservations, call 649-0834.

By Carol Hemingway

A fresh supply of hope & love

Dear Santa:

It has been a long, long time since I have written to you. This past year has not been an easy one, however, I moved from several Disillusion Avenue addresses to a little cottage on Happy Street(owned by happy people) where I'm going to reconstruct my novel (written 18 years ago while I was in recovery)..it's now called Sunshine and Chardonnay...

Thank you Santa for all of the glorious bright little baubles that you've given me. The ones I've had in years past are gone now, either broken, tarnished and tear-stained.

Thank you for bringing me a few of those precious toys that I once had...the shining bubbles of joy, the tinkling bells of cheer that now ring in my voice (since I moved back to Carmel), the candles of faith that shine in my eyes, the frankincense and myrrh of steadfast hope that has strengthened my soul, and I didn't forget the lodestar of Universal Love that gleams in my heart.

In years past, perhaps many of us did not realize nor did we appreciate your priceless treasures or care for them as we should have. How do we repent our carelessness? We humbly ask you to remember those of us who forgot how to enjoy your gifts and give us a fresh supply of hope and love this Christmas. We will hang our empty hearts by the chimney and please,

Santa... send us a large basket of forgetfulness, with which to cover up all bitterness and useless brooding; a large box of forgiveness, for those who robbed us of laughter and filled our eyes with tears. Leave us enough of the cement of hope to mend the shattered fragments of joy; tuck in a little song of cheer. And please, please Santa, leave quite a lot of plain, old-fashioned Faith, Understanding, Unselfishness and Tolerance, that we can share freely with our neighbors.

Sincerely and Thankful
A Grown Up Child
Carol Hemingway

E.R. (female) Carmel...Birthday June 16, 1941 Does 1992 look better for me? Will my business succeed? Will my new "healthy eating program" result in permanent weight loss? Is there romance coming my way? Will I move to another country?

CH: You're a Gemini with a Pisces Moon. Over the next two years I suggest_ you defend your belief system at all costs. There is growth for you in facing reality and developing practical spirituality. The beautiful— thing about Gemini is they always have a NEW way of seeing life. The focus of Gemini's camera lens in 1992 will be self-reliance. Keep a journal and write into it daily. Who knows, by the end of 1992 you may have the makings of a clever little novel, like mystery writer, Robert Ludlum.

Whatever you attempt in business will succeed, yes! You must believe in your dreams. Gemini wasn't born to a 9 to 5 world, it kills their creativity. They need and you need a spiritual partner .hat will be entering your life on a new Venus Return starting September 29, 1992. You need a Cancer mate born on July 2nd. to nurture and love you. I also see you going to Florida in April. With Jupiter now in Virgo (health sign) you bet your weight loss program will succeed as you'll throw up food not good for you...take lots of B-vitamins...Gemini runs on nervous energy. Move to a foreign country? You bet...how about Tonga, east of the Fiji Islands (ask Bill Bates for more specifics on what to expect there). Its a Gemini country, often called the Friendly Islands. Then there's Sweden, or Portugal (Libra and compliments your Sun sign)... Norway...the Netherlands (great for your Pisces planets) as in Holland.. and Morocco ain't bad either.

K.S. (female) Half Moon Bay...Birthday Dec. 13, 1943 Can you tell me if 1992 will be a good year for me? Will I sell my home and finally get my ranch or acreage in the foothills?

CH: This past year has been the pits as far as selling your property is concerned and Saturn won't move off your Venus until after Jan. 10, 1992. Then you may have a contract in hand after January 4th (New Moon, Solar Eclipse in Capricorn) and the best date to sign contracts is between Jan. 19 through 22 (1992)...Jan. 20 through Feb. 13 (1992) is a strong success time for you but you must be willing to plan ahead and work hard. You have the ability to make your dreams come true if you concentrate on your goal. Stop worrying already and get on with it!

C.K. (female) Carmel ... Now that Carmel mayor Jean Grace wan't seek another term does that open a door to the possibility that Clint Eastwood would run again?

CH: We're running out of space here for the Christmas issue, but I'll be glad to answer your question in the Jan. 2nd issue when I'll also be discussing what destiny twinkles in the Heavens for Carmel in 1992...Blessings to You All for the most precious of holidays. And don't forget to call me for your personal 1992 handwritten calendars 1992 (624-2881).

Lt. Gov. Leo McCarthy has announced the publication of a free, 40-page guide designed to assist small, minority- and women-owned businesses.

Starting and Succeeding in Business: A Guide for California Entrepreneurs was co-produced by McCarthy's office and Pacific Bell Directory, with additional assistance from Bank of America, Apple Computer, Inc., Wells Fargo Bank, Southern California Edison, American Savings Bank and Union Bank.

McCarthy, Chairman of the California Commission for Economic Development, McCarthy joined Pacific Bell Directory to develop the guide in order to promote one of the state's best sources of jobs.

"We produced this guide beeause we know the rewards for the small business owner and for the rest of us are worth it. Small businesses have aceounted for 50 percent of our major technological advances during the past 30 years. They provide fast-track opportunity for women and minority entrepreneurs, and give two out of three workers their first job," McCarthy said.

Richard Van Allen, president and CE0 of Pacific Bell Directory, noted that small business is currently the fastest growing sector of the American economy.

"Nowhere is the dominance of the entrepreneurial segment more evident than in California, where 75 small businesses start up every day. Such growth is encouraged by Pacific Bell Directory, which has a special interest in this vital sector, and a commitment to meeting its needs that spans more than 80 years," said Van Allen. "We welcome the opponunity to reaffirm this commitment, in partnership with the State of California and other corporate sponsors, through publication of Starting and Succeeding in Business."

The Carl Cherry Foundation recently recieved a grant for $1,000 from the Catherine L. and Robert 0. McMahan Foundation to fund the non-profit art center's new tract lighting system.

Conceived by Carmel lighting designer Joan Larkey, the new lighting system links 88 feet of metal track to 30 Gimbal Ring Lampholders above the one-time Cherry family living room. Installed by volunteer John Morgan, the system was designed to complement the Cherry Foundation's Chinese Grass cloth walls, stained pine floor and river stone fireplace.

The lighting system, which was also funded through grants from the city and the Monterey County Cultural Council, should be completed by late December. The Cherry Foundation, a43-year-old organization was established to foster the the artistic careers of local artists, dramatists and musicians, is located at the corners of Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel.

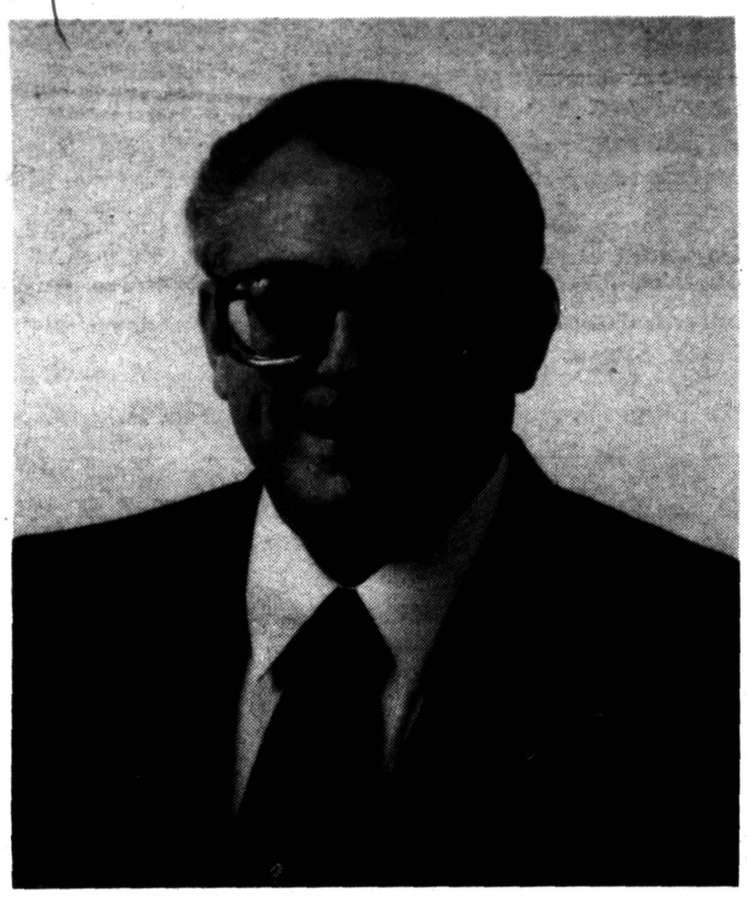
The Board of Directors of The Economic Development Corporation of Monterey County, Inc. (EDC), announced



THE BOARD of Directors of The Economic Development Corporation of Monterey County, Inc. (EDC), announced the election of Charles T. Chrietzberg, Jr., as president for 1992. The EDC , a private, non-profit corporation, was founded by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in 1982.

the election of Charles T. Chrietzberg, Jr., as president for 1992.

The EDC , a private, non-profit corporation, was founded by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in 1982. Its purpose is to promote economic development in all sections of the County through a cooperative effort between local government and the private sector, to diversify and expand the County's Economic base and to attract compatible new businesses that pose no environmental threat to the existing quality of life, thereby ensuring a prosperous local economy with a special focus on job creation.

Chrietzberg, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Monterey County Bank, has been very active in civic and community affairs. He is a Past President of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and VCB; member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, American Bankers Association, California Bankers Association, and Western Independent Bankers Association.

In 1990 Chrietzberg was named Financial Services Advocate of the Year by the Fresno District, U.S. Small Business Administration.

Additionally, Chrietzberg is a member of the Rotary Club of Carmel and serves on the Monterey County Sheriff's Advisory Committee. Very active in the wine industry (Chrietzberg and his wife, Sandra, own La Reina Winery) he is a Master Knight in the Brotherhood of the Knights of the Vine. He also serves as Charge' de Presse for the Confrerie de la Chaine des Rotisseurs, Monterey Peninsula Chapter.

A native of Texas, Chrietzberg received his BBA from Stephen F. Austin University. He resides in Carmel with his wife, Sandra.

The Carmel Board of Realtors has presented itshighest awards to two of its presidents— one incomingand the other outgoing.

Honored during installation ceremonies at the Innat Spanish Bay on Dec. 13 were Norma D'Isidoro, theCarmel Board's 1992 president, and L. R. Buck Bemis, the 1991 president.D'Isidoro, who is with Del Monte Realty Company'sCarmel office, was named 1991 Realtor of the Year.Bemis, of Cornish & Carey's Carmel office, was givenhis Board's Distinguished Service Award.

The ceremonies also honored Virginia E. Williams,who has just retired as executive vice-president of the Carmel Board after 17 years of service. Her successoris Jan Folsom, former executive officer of the SanBenito County Board of Realtors.D'Isidoro has been a leader in real estate affairsfor a number of years, both at the local and statewidelevels. In 1988-89 she chaired her board's localgovernment relations committee, and in 1990 served aspresident of the Monterey-Carmel Council of Real EstateBoard.

She has also served as regional representative forthe local government relations committee of theCalifornia Association of Realtors (CAR). This coming year will see her as a CAR director.Bemis, who has twice served as president of theCarmel Board, was cited for many years of dedicatedservice to his local and state organizations.

Taking office with D'Isidoro were Stephen Poohar,Fox & Carskadon, president-elect; Robert Wolovsky ofBurchell Realty, treasurer; and directors LeeGoodenough, Donna Rico, Lee Canonico, Rita Lewis, L.R.Bemis, Charles MacLaughlin, Joe Rousso, and Maria Wahl.

Brad Sherman, chairman of the State Board of Equalization, announced that new businesses will no longer be required to post sales tax security deposits before starting operation. The Board of Equalization, California's elected tax commission, is responsible for administering the sales tax.

Sherman supported the Board's recent decision to drop the security deposit requirement as a way of helping new businesses at a tirne when they are most vulnerable.

"Especially in these tough financial times, we should facilitate the creation of small businesses," Sherman said. 'When starting up, they just don't have thousands of dollars needed to sink into a security deposit. Small businesses should receive all the help we can give - they are responsible for most of the new jobs created in California."

Historically, most new businesses had been required to post a deposit totaling three times their estirnated monthly sales tax collection up to a maximum of $10,000.

Sherman said that security deposits will still be required where necessary to protect the state's interests. Retailers who have established a poor record of paying sales tax to the state may be required to post deposits. Likewise, deposits may be required from corporations, unless their owners agree to be personally responsible for making sure that sales taxes are paid.

COUNTY CULTURAL COUNCIL ANNOUNCES CULTURAL AWARDS TO ARTS ORGANIZATIONS

The Monterey County Cultural Council announces this year's cultural awards to arts organizations and projects in Monterey County. The awards, totaling $112,000, are made possible by funds from the Monterey County Board of Supervisors. The grants sponsor many of the varied artistic events that occur in Monterey County and also assist arts organizations through administrative support.

A community panel representing various arts disciplines and other interests, deliberated over the cultural proposals, making recommendations to the Monterey County Cultural Council's Board of Directors, who unanimously approved the awards. The proposed grants were then submitted to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors who approved of the recommended distribution as follows:

Winning design

WINNERS OF the Residential Christmas/Holiday Decorating Contest were Karyl Hall and Fred Nelson, who reside at 24814 Pescadero. The scene, from The Nutcracker ballet, includes a full-size ballerina, a couple of oversized toy soldiers and a toy box overflowing with gifts. Congratulations to Hall and Nelson and all the other participants in this year's contest.

DORIS DAY TO PRESENT $10,000 CHECK TO MONTEREY COUNTY SPCA

Doris Day, on behalf of her Doris Pet Foundation, presented a check for $10,000 to the Monterey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA), as a "gift to the animals for the holidays," so that hundreds of dogs and cats in the Monterey area can be spayed or neutered to cut down on pet overpopulation. She appeared Dec. 19 at the Monterey SPCAtp present the check.

Day's donation to the Monterey SPCA will be followed by donations by the Doris Day Pet Foundation to other organizations around the country to spay and neuter domestic animals.

Between 12 and 15 million dogs and cats are euthanized each year simply because there are not enough good homes for them. Day and her organizations (Doris Day Pet Foundation and Doris Day Animal League), see spaying and neutering as a way to reduce these tragic numbers, and to save millions of taxpayers' dollars. She wants to treat the cause, not the effect, of the problem.

The Doris Day Pet Foundation translated the problem of uncontrolled breeding into dollars and cents to show how serious the problem is. It costs about $250 a month — that's $3,000 per year — to board one medium-sized dog while trying to find a home for him or her.

For that same $250, eight dogs or 10 cats can be spayed or neutered. That would eliminate 96 pets a year, who would have the potential to breed and produce hundreds or thousands more animals. And, their offspring would produce thousands more if they were not altered. Two uncontrolled breeding cats — plus their kittens and all their kittens' kittens, if none are spayed or neutered, have the potential to multiply to more than 80 million cats during a 10-year breeding life.

Obituaries

Preston S. Donovan

Preston Scott Donovan of Carmel died Nov. 27 at the Hospice of the Central Coast in Monterey. He was 32.

Born Dec. 26, 1958, in Carmel, he attended local schools and was self-employed as a landscape gardener.

He is survived by his mother and stepfather, Patricia and Fred Ask of Carmel; his father, Jim Donovan of Riverside; his maternal grandmother, Cherice Warrington of Redding; three half brothers, a half sister and one stepbrother.

Father Farrell's Wisdom

Don't worry

LET ME join all your friends who have wished you a Happy New Year! We are told this is the time to tum over a new leaf and to make a long list of resolutions. If you have, I am reasonably sure that most of them have been broken by now. However, I suggest that it is not too late to make one big resolution and keep it. Here goes: "don't worry."

Worry is like a colony of mental and spiritual termites that can gnaw away our hearts even if they are made of strong and solid oak. Worry is the most effective arrow in the devil's quiver. How can we serve others above self if worry is bothering us like a festering carbuncle?

Worry can build up a mole hill into a mountain higher than Mt. Everest in the Himalayas. Real problems and troubles do not cause ulcers; it is worrying about them. When you have genuine problems and troubles, face up to them with reality. Then package them securely and hand them over to God. No matter what, rumors to the contrary, it is on God's desk that the sign rests, "The Buck Stops Here."

Isn't it true that 99.9 percent of your worries never happened? So when the first worry, like an Indian Cobra, raises its venomous head, "pass the buck." The great St. Teresa of Avila, whose cloistered nuns are neighbors of ours at Monastery Beach, wrote these words on her book mark:

Let nothing disturb thee
Let nothing affright thee
All things are passing
Only God is enduring
God alone suffices.

Bible class offered

Anyone interested is invited to attend a bible class for people using English is their second language. The classes are offered every Tuesday from 10-11:30 a.m. For more information call 646-5485.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Analysis of 1990 census data underscores the growth of the population group that is 65 or older. The total U.S. populationgrew by almost 10 percent from 1980 to 1990. But the number of people 65 or over jumped by 22 percent. Americans over 65 now exceed 30 million—outnumbering teenagers. On average, people now reaching 65 will live about 17 more years, according to the National Center for Health Statistics.

Fifty men and women aged 52 to 83 responded to an offer by the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, New York. They signed up for music instruction in preparation to form a senior-adult brand. About one in three had not played an instrument since school days, and some had no experience at all. They learned quickly. Eastman instructors had these comments: "Maturity can be advantage rather than a disadvantage in learning... "They come early and stay late"... "They really practice!"

Remember when? 1934—A Broadway-bound musical featuring Cole Porter songs went through name changes from "Bon Voyage" to "Hard to Get" before it premiered as the smash hit, "Anything Goes."

Doris, Kim back in the limelight once again

By JOHN DETRO

TWO OF this area's favorite ladies — Doris Day, Kim Novak — may not need this mention today. But they deserve.

A new survey says Miss Day's Sentimental Journey with the Les Brown Big Band stands among the top 20 songs from the period our country was involved in the Second World War.

Miss Novak appears in a new film which opened recently at the Kabuki Theater in San Francisco.

The tune's seventh position was based on reported sales of records and sheet music, number of weeks as number one hit, appearances on various charts. Bing Crosby had the topmost discs.

The film Liebestraum was directed by Mike Figgis, who also wrote the screenplay. A San Francisco critic said: "Kim Novak is in the cast, though in a small and not particularly flashy role. She plays a terminally ill patient, so she sleeps for most of the movie, waking up occasionally to wince...." For all the plot's reported complexities, the writer gave his lead paragraph to the fact of Miss Novak's participation.

Finally, here's the full roster of wartime hits:

1) White Christmas by Bing Crosby. 1942, 1943, 1944.

2) Silent Night by Bing Crosby. 1942, 1943, 1944.

3) I've Heard That Song Before by Harry James. 1943.

4) Paper Doll by Mills Brothers. 1943.

5) Moonlight Cocktail by Glenn Miller. 1942.

6) Rum And Coca-Cola by Andrews Sisters. 1945.

7) Sentimental Journey by Doris Day and Les Brown.

8) Swinging On A Star by Bing Crosby. 1944.

9) Don't Fence Me In by Bing Crosby and Andrews Sisters. 1944-45.

10) I'll Get By from Harry James. 1944.

11) There Are Such Things by Tommy Dorsey. 1942.

12) Shoo-Shoo Baby by Andrews Sisters. 1944.

13) Pistol-Packin' Mama by Al Dexter and Troopers. 1943.

14) Jingle, Jangle, Jingle by Kay Kyser. 1942.

15) Kalamazoo by Glenn Miller. 1942.

16) Who Wouldn't Love You? by Kay Kyser. 1942.

17) Jersey Bounce by Benny Goodman. 1942.

18) My Heart Tells Me by Glen Gray. 1943.

19) You Always Hurt The One You Love by Mills Brothers. 1944.

20) I'll Walk Alone by Dinah Shore. 1944.

Park rangers lead whale-watch excursions along Big Sur coast

HEADED DOWN the Big Sur coast for a leisurely weekend drive? Why not stop and join a park ranger and an interested group of people and observe the annual migration of the California Grey Whale?

If you should find yourself around Garrapata State Park on Saturdays in January about 10 a.m,. keep an eye out for the "Whale watch" signs south of the California Fish and Game lab at Granite Canyon. There. a park ranger will help you pick out whales and answer your questions.

Want to know how big a grey whale is? Then drive down to the vista point at Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park, where you can pace off the grey whale painted on the pavement. On Sundays in January at 10 a.m., the park ranger will help you identify passing whales, as well as other marine mammals.

If you are up to more strenuous exercise, take a tour of the Point Sur State Historic Park on Sundays during January, February and March. A member of the Cetacean Society, Monterey Chapter, will accompany the group to answer questions about marine mammals and help you catch sight of the whales.

For more information about the tours, phone 625-4419.

Don't forget to bring along your binoculars or spotting scope.

Don January latest big name to join the field of 1992 Hogan Invitational

LEGENDARY DON January, winner of 26 senior titles, and Ryder Cupper Steve Pate are among the latest to challenge rookie tour sensation John Daly and defending champion Juli Inkster in the 1992 Ben Hogan-Pebble Beach Invitational, kicking off the golf year in Del Monte Forest.

The $400,000 tournament will be staged Jan. 2-5 over the Spyglass Hill, Poppy Hills and Pebble Beach golf courses, with Pebble Beach, site of the 1992 U.S. Open, being the headquarters course and the site of ESPN television coverage Saturday and Sunday.

Daly, who stood the golf world on its ear earlier this year with his dramatic victory in the PGA Championship, has continued to hold the hot hand. The long-hitting rookie finished third in the season-ending Tour Championship last month and more recently was the second leading money-winner in the Skins Game.

Inkster became the first woman to beat the men in head-to-head competition in the history of golf when she won the tournament last year, the women being given a distance advantage off the tees on all three golf courses so as to be able to hit the same club into the greens as the men.

January, a former PGA champion who won 12 times on the regular tour in his younger days, dominated the Senior Tour, winning 26 times and finishing second, second, first, first, third and fourth on the money list from the years 1981 to 1986.

Several other golfers — all of whom have won PGA Tour tournaments over the years — have also joined what is already the strongest field in the 20-year history of the event, which was founded and directed by Harold Firstman, who annually donates benefits from the event to charity. The latest entries are former champion Bob Gilder, former Crosby winner Lon Hinkle, Mike Reid, David Edwards, Dave Barr, Mark Lye, Rick Fehr, Tom Byrum, Doug Tewell, Mark Wiebe, Barry Jaeckel, Keith Clearwater and Roger Maltbie.

Already in the field are such players as Chip Beck and Al Geiberger, the only two to have broken 60 with torrid 59's in a PGA tournament; all-time great Johnny Miller, a former champion; last year's runner-up Mark Brooks; Kenny Perry, Jay Don Blake and Russ Cochran. Current leader on the money list from the Senior Tour, George Archer, is also making another appearance in the tournament, after having won three times in 1991.

Joining Inkster in the women's field will be LPGA stars Amy Alcott, Nancy Scranton and Cindy Rarick.

Proceeds from the tournament, staged with the help of some 600 dedicated volunteers, will once again be turned over to the Monterey Kiwanis Club for use in its youth-oriented charity programs.

Advanced ticket information is available by calling the tournament office 800/347-6126, or by writing the Ben Hogan-Pebble Beach Invitational, P.O. Box M, Carmel, CA 93921. Advance season tickets, good for the entire week at Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Poppy Hills, are priced at $40 each.

River Inn celebrates Miller's 100th

THE RIVER Inn Resort will celebrate Henry Miller's 100th birthday, on his birthday, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 26, at the River Inn in Big Sur.

The celebration includes premier showings of two of Miller's films: "The Henry Miller Odyssey," which is narrated by the author himself, and another rare Miller film, to be announced at the party, featuring conversations with Miller

"We feel privileged to be showing these Henry Miller films not available for public viewing," Alan Perimutter, owner of River Inn Resort, said. "They provide an interesting insight into the man himself."

The first show starts at 8:30 p.m. Each film runs approximately 45 minutes and there is a $2 door charge. Dinner and cocktails are available while the movies are shown.

String in the new year

THE GREAT Brazilian guitarist Laurindo Almeida played Hidden Valley Music Seminars just recently and, as might be expected, drew warm comments from listeners. Now Hidden Valley jazz booker Richard Armbrust says the venue has obtained Laurindo's services for the New Year's Eve Gala (12/31). That party will run from nine o'clock till an hour into 1992. In addition to the Almeida group (performances at 9:30 and 10:45), there will be a band for dancing, buffet, champagne and other choice wines. It's $40 per person. Reservations necessary — so call 655-3115 as soon as possible.

New faces at AT&T

THE AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am today announced an outstanding field of contestants for the 1992 tournament, slated for Jan. 27 to Feb. 2

Newcomers this year will include Grammy Award-winning singer John Denver, "Garfield" creator Jim Davis, and Jason Bateman, star of the popular television series "Hogan Family."

They will join many returning celebrity favorites as well as top golfers on the PGA Tour who will be competing for a share of the $1.1 million purse.

Advance tickets are available through the tournament office at (800) 541-9091, or BASS/TM at 998-BASS.

On Stage

Into the Woods

The Tony Award winner, Into The Woods, continues in the Main Stage Theater at Monterey Peninsula College. The Stephen Sondheim-James Lupine musical, which interweaves four favorite fairy tales, will be presented in both an adult version and a special children's version.

Act I of the full two-plus hours production closes with the audience expecting a "live happily ever after" ending. Act II reveals what really followed. The full version, rated PG-10, will play at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and 2 p.m. Sundays. A shortened version for younger children, rated PG-6, will be presented at 2 p.m. matinees on Saturdays. The children's production runs 75 minutes. Parents are requested not to bring infants or toddlers to the performances.

Into the Woods will continue through Dec. 22, and resume Jan. 3 for a two-week run. There will be no performances Dec. 23 through Jan. 2

Tickets are $15 for general admission, $11 for students/military and senior citizens, and $7 for children under 12. Admission for the Saturday children's matinees are $9 general and $6 for children. A special $1 children's ticket is available with each general admission ticket.

Reservations may be made through the MPC Box office, 646-4213, 4 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, or the MCTA Box office, 655-3200, 11 a.m. to p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Annual Olio Revue

California's First Theatre continues its Annual Olio Revue at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 20 and Saturday, Dec. 21.

This production will be presented by Troupers of the Gold Coast (their 498th production) and will play Friday and Saturday nights through January 1992. The theater will be dark Dec. 27 and 28. A special New Year's Eve performance will be mounted. All shows are at 8 p.m.

The Olio Revue is an evening of variety with singing, dancing and melodramatic skits suitable for the whole family.

Reservations can be made by calling 375-4916. The bvox office is open Wednesday through Saturday after 1 p.m. Admission is $7 for adults, $5.50 for seniors and teens and $4.50 for 12 and under.

California's First Theatre is located at the corner of Pacific and Scott streets in Monterey.

At the Hop

At the Hop, Laura Akard's rock 'n' roll musical revue, will play one weekend only. Friday, Dec. 27 through Sunday, Dec. 29 and clsoing with a New Year's Eve Champagne Gala on Tuesday, Dec. 31 at GroveMont's Monterey Playhouse, 425 Washington St. (between Franklin and Bonifacio), in downtown Monterey.

At the Hop is a nostalgic dance tour of the '50s and '60s featuring such hits as Jailhouse Rock, Rock Around the Clock, Tequila, Yesterday, and Respect. The cast of eight dances its way from do-wop to Motown with theme sections covering such all-important topics as falling in love, finding, losing and re-finding Mr. Right, hanging out, being cool, surfing, cruising, going to the dance, and sharing a soda at the malt shop.

At the Hop plays Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and on Sunday at 2 p.m. and again at 8.

Tickets are $12 general, $20 a pair and $8 for students and seniors. The New Year's Eve Gala starts with a reception at 8 p.m. and performance at 9. Tickets for the gala are $50 single and $90 a pair, which includes reception, intermission refreshments, after-show buffet, dancing and party favors.

To make reservations, call 649-6852.

Spiritual discussions offered

On the first Sunday of every month there will be an offering by St. Philip's Lutheran Church of music by Pat Mahoney's group "Homefire" along with discussion and spiritual exploration especially for persons who are not currently attending church. It will be held in the church sanctuary at 8065 Carmel Valley Rd. in Carmel Valley at 7 p.m. For more information call 624-6765.

Winter hours announced for Farmer's Market

Old Monterey's Farmer's market will now be open on Tuesday night from 4:30-7 p.m. It will continue to be held on Alvarado St., Monterey, primarily between Franklin Street and Del Monterey Avenue.

Rockin' New Year's

At the Hop, Laura Akard's rock 'n' roll musical revue, will play one weekend only. Friday, Dec. 27 through Sunday, Dec. 29 and clsoing with a New Year's Eve Champagne Gala on Tuesday, Dec. 31 at GroveMont's Monterey Playhouse, 425 Washington St. (between Franklin and Bonifacio), in downtown Monterey. Tickets are $12 general, $20 a pair and $8 for students and seniors. The New Year's Eve Gala starts with a reception at 8 p.m. and performance at 9. Tickets for the gala are $50 single and $90 a pair, which includes reception, intermission refreshments, after-show buffet, dancing and party favors. To make reservations, call 649-6852.

Divorced women's support group offered

Women who are recently divorced or who are in the process of getting a divorce share many of the same concerns. The support group is designed to meet the needs of women requiring assistance. The group is held every Tuesday from 6-7:30 p.m. for 10 weeks at the YWCA, 801 Lighthouse Ave., Suite 109, Monterey. For more information or to reserve your space in the group call 649-0834.

Ring in the blues

IF YOUR New Year's resolution includes going out to see and hear more blues, Doc Ricketts' excellent Blue Monday blues series continues unabated through the first of the year.

On tap for January are: Joe Louis Walker & the Boss Talkers, Mickey Thomas, the return of Forbidden Pigs, Anson Funderburgh & the Rockets (featuring Sammy Myers), and John Mayall. Marcia Ball is slated to make a return appearance in February. Do you have any more suggestions? Just give them a call down at Doc's or pick up a suggestions/mailing list card at the club itself and fill it out to your heart's content.

Here are some of my own suggestions: Ronnie Earl & the Broadcasters, James Harman Band, Nappy Brown, Lonnie Brooks, William Clarke, Roomful of Blues, Katie Webster, Kenny Neal, Robert Ward, The Bluerunners, The Subdudes (not a blues band per se, just a great roots rock band), I could go on and on (and often do), but none of those folks is out of the realm of possibility.

AS FOR New Year's Eve, of course there's a raft of options, perhaps too many. If your itinerary doesn't involve traveling to the Bay Area (where such bands as the Neville Brothers, Nirvana, and of course, The Grateful Dead, will hold forth in a variety of venues), there are a multitude of happenings, from The Cubes at Doc Ricketts' Lab to a performance of the rock musical At the Hop at GroveMont to Laurindo Almeida at Hidden Valley.

A few selected ones you may want to consider:

• The Big Chill party featuring the Motown sounds of the DeSotos at the Hyatt Regency Monterey, with dinner from 7 to 10 p.m. and dancing from 8:30 to 1:30. For $49 per person you also get pizza, hot dogs, sliders, spaghetti & meatballs, buffalo wings and more. Info: 372-1234.

• Jonah and the Whale Watchers at Shanty Malone's at the Valley Hills Center (3.5 miles east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road). Have a roots reggae New Year's Eve with Mikey Dread and de boys. Call 626-0604 for more info.

• Dr. Loco and The Rockin' Jalapeno Band mixes it up at El Teatro Campesino in San Juan Bautista Friday and Saturday, Dec. 27-28, with the theater's New Year's Eve bash featuring The Nite Liters. Info's at 623-2444.

• Elvin Bishop at The Catalyst in Santa Cruz; 9:30 p.m. start. Info's at 423-1336.

• The Cubes at Doc Ricketts' Lab. The big question of the night: what will guitarist Tom Ayres wear for the evening? A wedding dress with fright wig is not entirely out of the question. For information call 649-4241.

• The Clampett Bash. The annual bash featuring the Fabulous Bagtones at the American Legion Hall in Monterey. This has become a yearly tradition for many people, who couldn't possibly think out sending out the year without a few renditions of Wooly Bully, Louie, Louie, and I Hear You Knockin'. You know who you are and what to do.

• Laurindo Almeida at Hidden Valley in Carmel Valley, two sets 9:30 and 11 p.m., with hors d'oeuvres, buffet with wine, dancing and champagne at midnight, all for $40 per (see Jazz Tides for more info on this). Info: 659-3115.

• The (New) Boiler Room with rock band Foreign Exchange and comedians Bobby Gaylor and Peter Berman, catered buffet, champagne and party favors. Cost: $25 per person, $45 per couple. Info: 373-1449.

UPCOMING EVENTS with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

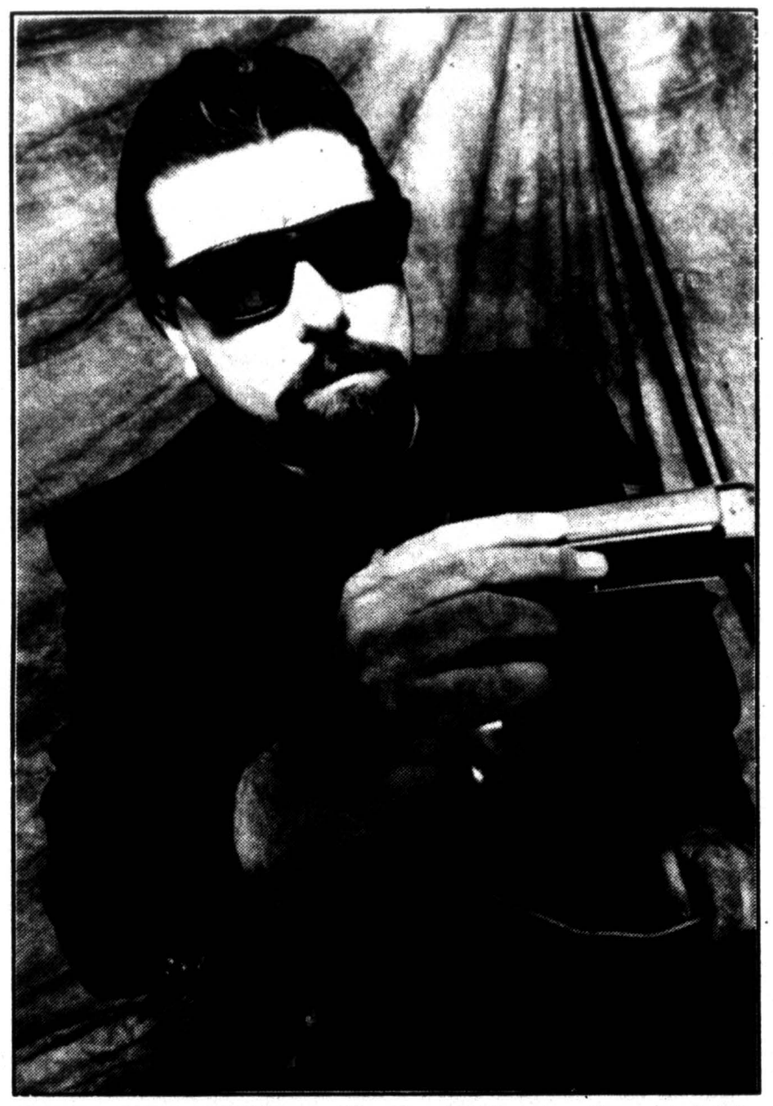
• Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row has a lineup of local bands slated to play out the rest of the year. The club will be closed Dec. 23-25 and will reopen Dec. 26 through 28 with Backtrax. To round out the month, Rock & Roll Rodeo plays Dec. 29, Lovers and Strangers hits the clubs again after a brief hiatus Dec. 30 and The Cubes, of course, play New Year's Eve.

Info on all shows can be had by calling 649-4241.

• Jonah and the Whale Watchers continue to play the Monterey Brewing Company every Wednesday. They'll also be playing Shanty Malone's Fridays. If you like roots raga-reggae, these are the places to be every Wednesday and Friday night. Call 375-3634 for info.

• Upcoming shows at The Catalyst in Santa Cruz include: Chris Cain Band (Dec. 26), Psychefunkapus (Dec. 27), Taj Mahal and Band (Dec. 28), Bela Fleck and the Flecktones (Dec. 29), and Elvin Bishop for New Year's Eve.

Tickets are available at all BASS/TM outlets (including Lighthouse Avenue in New Monterey and The Crossroads). Info for Catalyst shows can be had by calling 423-1336. The Catalyst is located at 1011 Pacific Ave. in downtown Santa Cruz.



HARP WHIZ William Clarke (Alligator Records) is high on my list of suggestions for Doc Ricketts' Blue Monday blues series, which continues at the club through the first months of 1992 with Joe Louis Walker, Anson Funderburgh, Marcia Ball, John Mayall and the return of the Forbidden Pigs.

Dolores and Seventh, Carmel. 625-1915.

Artist Bruni Sablan

From great pain, a radiant art blossomed

Today I saw a woman plowing a furrow. Her hips are broad, like mine, for love, and she goes about her work bent over the earth.

-- Gabriela Mistral

Editor Mac:

Thanks for processing this article about the jazz portrait artist Bruni Sablan, whose local shows have won friends for her and the work. I'll stick with the letter/memo format, if you don't mind, since it gives freedom, room to move, and this unusual woman demands such.

I quote the late Chilean poet Gabriela Mistral, up above, because there's a real parallel between her life and Bruni's. The common element: great pain flowering into radiant art. (Jazz itself, true acoustic straight-ahead jazz, always will be Resurrection Music: the people creating forceful worldwide beauty out of unspeakable battering.)

"BLUE BIRD"

Gabriela was the first Latin American author to win the Nobel Prize for Literature (1945). When she was still a young teacher in the mountains, the love of her life blew himself away, for reasons forever unclear, and she never married. Instead, she built the books filled with births, children, night songs, hard sun, snow.

Brazil-born Bruni's Los Gatos gallery now holds more than 200 portraits of great jazz spirits like Pops Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Coltrane, Dexter Gordon, Billie Holiday, on and on. She has done album covers — Erroll Garner on the recent Polygram rerelease; Emily Remler (two retrospective packages from Concord). Leonard Feather, who knew Bill very well, liked her Bill Evans picture so much that Leonard lobbied behind-the-scenes so that Bruni would get the Polygram job.

Bruni already had been married once and divorced by the time she met her heart's true mate (1980). There already was a lovely daughter, today a young vocalist and songwriter. Bitter circumstances within his family and mental life drove the man — working jazz musician — away from her. He said he could never return.

Pain deepens memory as well as vision. It sets up formality, sense of proportion, artful form. The Jazz Masters Series would be her lifework. And her deeply spiritual approach to the portraits would produce an ethic ("I'm a channel who meets with departed subjects, and asks permission") that may cause a bit of controversy when folks read this piece.

(Upfront, Mac, I believe Bruni. She borrowed a photograph and painted for me a portrait of my life's ladylove, the late jazz vocalist Carol Mildon. The final result contained strong physical truths that weren't in the photo. "Carol's a high and playful being," Bruni said. Amen.)

Bruni Sablan's grasp of art and spiritual considerations came early — soon after she was born into a well-off family at Sao Paulo, Brazil. Her Sicilian father was an architect and civil engineer, her Lebanese mother a concert pianist who played local halls. "I grew up hearing jazz from my father's record collection. My paternal grandmother was extremely religious," Bruni says. "There were wonderful statues — The Virgin Mary, St. Anthony. She taught me to pray and know that prayers would be answered. As I grew, I put these things away, but they lived inside of me, dormant. When I saw the agonizing parts of life, these things came back. Living in Los Angeles, a grown woman, I bought a statue of St. Anthony and started lighting candles to him. That's something I still do every single day."

And: "I believe in the afterlife, that death's a passage. Through my painting, I've had contact with giants—Trane, Bird Parker, Billie, Sarah Vaughan, scores of others. Their statements come through symbolically. When I painted Sarah a few days after she passed on, for instance, the face of a strong and beautiful African woman appeared in her hair. I got the feeling that she's okay, peaceful, and maybe offering a message for everyone: we don't die. One time, I was painting another Coltrane, and Bird kept coming through. Bird wouldn't stay out, and I asked him — 'Bird, what do you want?' Then Mark Gray, my assistant at Old Town Gallery, remarked that it was Bird's birthday. So that's sort of how they 'talk' with me. They're wonderful pals. If someone resists—Bessie Smith did not want to be painted—I've learned enough not to battle. Bessie finally let me, but it took weeks, weeks."

Bruni worked as a jazz singer for a spell, but visual art wouldn't leave her alone. "My father painted," she says, "and gave me his equipment when I was 15. I

Almeida's return

THE GREAT Brazilian guitarist Laurindo Almeida played Hidden Valley Music Seminars just recently and, as might be expected, drew warm comments from listeners.

Now Hidden Valley jazz booker Richard Armbrust says the venue has obtained Laurindo's services for the New Year's Eve Gala (12/31). That party will run from nine o'clock till an hour into 1992.

In addition to the Almeida group (performances at 9:30 and 10:45), there will be a band for dancing, buffet, champagne and other choice wines. It's $40 per person. Reservations necessary—so call 655-3115 as soon as possible.

VENUE OWNER Anthony Bindell of Monterey Brewing Company puts out a call. He asks jazz musicians hereabouts to help him get started on Saturday afternoon jam sessions.

"With our nation's economy the way it is," Anthony told this writer, "people aren't going out as much. Alcohol consumption's down. Maybe clubowners can't shoulder all the burden. I hope that musicians will start looking at how they might help keep the art form alive."

The jams would start at noon Saturday and roll on indefinitely. All interested parties may call Anthony at 375-3634. The spot's address: 638 Wave Street...right above Cannery Row.

"We'll put out the donations bowl," he adds, "the same way we do for the Sunday afternoon blues jams. Players can split whatever patrons put in there. As a former airline pilot, I know Montreux (Jazz Festival). Monterey's another Montreux, but we don't use our clout. Let's figure out how to get more things happening on a regular basis."

KELLY LEONARD of Doc Ricketts' Lab turned loose reedman/booker John Cortes. John has created a valuable Sunday Afternoon Jazz Series (no cover). Now Cortes announces these additional guest artists: popular local flutist Kenny Stahl (12/29), strong trumpet man and flugelhornist Brian Stock (1/5), return engagement for Oscar Williams who played trumpet and flugelhorn with Art Blakey (1/12), mellow vocalist Lee Durley (1/19).

Cortes fronts the Sunday afternoon house quartet. Then his bright rhythm section plays behind the day's imported talent. These gigs run from two o'clock till six.

IT'S OVER—the Monday night run of Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra at Carmel Mission Inn. MPJO Administrator Eric Tonn says he'll take a break before seeking another showcase.

"I think we'll be back the end of January or the first part of February," Eric says. "Right now, I'm tired. We've done 161 performances in three years — concerts, workshops, (public school) clinics, Monday night dates. That's a pretty good track record. And we'll keep going."

Eric says he told MPJO players they "should feel free to join Monterey Jazz Orchestra," another volunteer aggregation which works Monday nights at Monterey Bay Club. "All the regulars said they'd return to MPJO when we had our next room."

THE NEW Year's Eve package announced by Highlands Inn includes alto saxist John Handy with Class (four young ladies who sing and play jazz violins). Hired by John for that occasion, bassist Bryan McConnell says the great percussionist Babatunde will be on the gig. There's a champagne dinner price or dancing only. Call 624-3801.

FUTURE FILE: The Fridays at Eight Series of Hidden Valley Music Seminars continues its refreshing ways. Like so: Claudia Gomez Quintet (1/10), Dave Frishberg (1/17), Steve Erquiaga Quintet (1/24), Carlos Barbosa-Lima and his guitar (2/7).

And after the annual holiday break always taken by Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz: Kenny Kirkland Band (1/13), Astrud Gilberto (1/20), Elvin Jones Jazz Machine (1/27), Hugh Masekela (2/3), Roy Hargrove (2/24).

Yoshi's in Oakland has great jazz guitarists signed during January. Jim Hall's group (1/15-18) will be followed by the Joe Pass Quartet (1/29-2/1). Joe's "tribute to Django Reinhardt" will be recorded live for a future album.

NAMES: When Jay Leno takes over Johnny Carson's late night TV show in May, Branford Marsalis likely will be named musical director. So say media insiders. Moreover, Leno will work without a professional sidekick (like Carson's Ed McMahon). He's expected to use Brandford as sounding board and stable second voice.

Phillippe Kahn's a better than fair jazz reedman with one bright CD to his credit thus far. He also heads up Borland International, the $226 million software company in Scotts Valley.

PC magazine has named Kahn its Man of the Year for "aggressive marketing strategies and his charismatic personality." Phillipe studied jazz arts with longtime area player Paul Contos.

Composer and singer Reuben Blades has applied to his native Panama's electoral tribunal for the formation of a new political party. Many analysts believe he'll run for president there in 1994. The proposed party's name — Madre Patria (Mother Country).

Bruni Sablan: a spiritual approach to art needed to paint and draw; this activity always has given me peace. Then I fell completely in love with the jazz musician. He was my man and my inspiration. He taught me to really listen, to hear the difference between David Sanborn and Sonny Rollins. He fronted a very good jazz group, so they were busy. I went to every gig, every night. Instead of just hanging out, I took my sketchbook and drew, drew, drew the musicians. It was tragic when he went away from what we had, a brutal loss. Pain triggers incredible results. I worked hard, and ran into a great teacher named Michael Linstrom. Michael's a colorist, a superb one, and I did color studies for two years. Finally, in 1985, Michael told me I could go back to the jazz sketchbooks, go back and begin, go back and start the path that became my Jazz Masters Series."

Bruni has a ceremonial sense when she prepares for work at her studio. "First, I put on some fine jazz. Then I sit at my table and mix colors; sometimes it'll be three hours. At a point, I 'go away.' I enter a meditative state. Instead of chanting, I mix the colors. It's like praying, but a different kind of praying. I, myself, get out of the way. Then I approach the canvas and start painting. As I said, I talk with the subject's spirit and get permission to be there. I have a lot of respect for these artists. I had to ask Lester Young many times. John Coltrane comes through very quickly — he's so positive and helpful. Yes, 'channeler' would be an accurate term. If one focuses and is creative, it's possible to tap into these higher energies. And the subjects express themselves in those symbolic ways. I don't like other labels, though; certainly not the academic labels that are placed on artists. I'm a painter. There's good painting and bad painting. That's how it is — one God, one universe, one family — and sometimes we feel and get to know these higher planes."

Some of her subjects, Bruni says, become "friends for life. I make contact, just as if we were conversing. Our beings connect. It's not in English or Brazilian Portuguese. I'm close with Emily Remler, and talk with her all the time. Dizzy's a blessed soul— that man has so many angels on his side! They adore him. He comes through almost as quickly as John Coltrane. I can't take credit for this; I don't even try to take the credit."

She runs a hand through her crow-dark hair. Then: "I feel guided. Many times, the subjects pick me. I might start with photos found in jazz record shops. Or my daughter will give me resource pictures; we're connected and maybe she's guided too. I often paint from my own sketches, done on-the-spot as often as possible, when people are working. Sometimes I feel compelled to paint certain ones. June Christy, for example. It's as though she called. I turned, and picked up this book in a store, and opened it, and there was just the right photo of June. I don't believe in reincarnation. It's another dimension—stages of the soul's advancement. That's my feeling, at any rate. I'm always grateful when the jazz artists, themselves, call out and indicate that they want to be painted."

Well, Mac — what's left for the saying? Individuals who'd like to see the Jazz Masters Series will find Old Town Gallery at 50 University Ave. in Los Gatos. Private showings always are possible; call (408) 395-9100 for an appointment.

Bruni wears completely black outfits. No other kind. Once, at one of her art openings, I heard someone ask his companion if she was in mourning. Where Bruni Sablan's concerned, it's well to remember that black is the place from which all colors flow. John Detro

Book Bag

By John Detro

What's in a name?

THE GREAT Charlie Chaplin loved John Steinbeck's novels. He often drove all over this county, matching up actual sites and written descriptions.

Well, Chaplin could have used Donald Thomas Clark's Monterey County Place Names to excellent advantage. (See ad copy below for details on how the title may be obtained.) I have the 737-page paperback from Kestrel Press — and so far the wonders therein seem deep and endless.

Donald Thomas Clark? Merely the University Librarian Emeritus at UC/Santa Cruz. And a dedicated researcher who wouldn't believe those who warned him that the project was too large for any one person.

"When Don Clark told me that he was going to write a book on the place names of Monterey County," historian Sandy Lydon confesses via the foreword, "it was all I could do to keep from laughing aloud...I was very skeptical...Monterey County is huge...sprawling across 3,324 square miles." Then: "I underestimated Don Clark's tenacity and resolve."

The descriptions herein contain not only hard data but also literary flair, shining wit, a real appreciation for those who went before us. In fact, Clark's work reflects the spirit of those pioneers — hardy, clear, valuable over the long run.

Abalone Creek? Bottchers Gap? Carmelito? Estrada? Last Chance Camp? Paradise Park? They're all here — along with Pozo Hondo Creek, Roberts Oak, Sargent Camp, Circle of Enchantment, Twin Bridges, Welch Ridge,. on and on. The richness seems almost dizzying. I know that this volume will sit close to hand for years — it's perfect when one's imagination needs a jolt.

Lydon says the book's maker "wades into some of the county's most heated debates and umpires them into winners and losers. For Clark, accuracy always wins out over diplomacy."

For example, Clark confirms that the 1889 post office was on the coast near Point Lobos rather than up in Carmel Valley where the facility's centennial was celebrated. "Meanwhile the Hatfields and McCoys, the contending Carmel historians, continue to fire letters back and forth in the pages of the local newspapers. Clark will now have to watch his back when he ventures into Carmel Valley."

If you've ever thought that place-based scholarship would be dull, one look at this superb volume will dash the suspicion forever.

DON'T FORGET the 40-page booklet entitled Father Farrell's Wisdom. This compilation presents some witty and inspirational newspaper columns by the late Fr. Larry Farrell. Copies ($4 per) may be ordered by calling 625-5715 or 624-4836. Delivery will be worked out upon request. Proceeds benefit Harrison Memorial Library.

PROFESSOR MARILYN Goldstein says pages found on American Indian pottery prove that books existed in the Americas some 500 years earlier than previously thought. And, she adds, the same material shows Indians were sophisticated long before Europeans arrived.

The discovery came while the Long Island University art history prof was viewing the private collection of someone who collects artifacts and requests anonymity. The 10-inch-tall ceramic vessel was created between 600 AD and 900 AD by the Mayas, once a highly-developed civilization based in today's Yucatan, Belize, northern Guatemala.

CURRENT GUIDEBOOKS say The Big Apple has its rotten spots. From the Birnbaum 1992 advisory: "Times Square is always crowded. The quality of the crowds, however, leaves much to be desired. Times Square is mainly the hangout of drug pushers, pimps, hookers, junkies, religious fanatics and assorted street peddlars attempting to fence stolen goods."

The Berlitz pocket guide advises tourists in New York City to lock room doors, never carry large amounts of cash, wear a minimum of jewelry, avoid "side streets or obviously seedy areas," never leave valuables "unattended or behind your back."

BOOKS, ETC.

The Book Tree

And what a delightful place. Owner Anna Binicos: "So many publishers shoot at the lowest common denominator. We're proudest of bypassing dross and finding the real gems in various fields." The former librarian's special fun? "Tracking down older things for people, getting to know these readers, sharing their enthusiasms. There's never a fee for the detective work. And our Special Order Service - anything in print - is quick."

For the Holidays, remember...large array of 1992 calendars...from Ansel Adams to Monet and World Wildlife Fund. New books, of course. Sale titles. Rather special emphases on psychology, women's studies, photography, literary classics. At 118 Webster near Monterey Post Office. Hours: 10-5:30 Monday through Friday; 11-5 Saturdays. 373-0228. Vibrant atmosphere.

Britannica LEARNING CENTER formerly The Reading Game

What an unusual and thoughtful holidy gift. Purpose expressed by Director Phyllis Stebbins. "To foster the true love of reading" Those who work with the Center's experienced teachers, incentive programs, brillant methods - from pre-school youngsters to busy business people - end up reading faster and better and so much more. On average, just 48 hours of indtruction = a year's academic growth. Individual testing, goal-testing, schedule design.

Call today for a truly life-changing appointment - 372-2090. Convenient Monterey location: 200 Camino Aguajito. . . Suite 201. An independently-owned franchise. Program proven since 1970. And committed to the joyous practicality of graceful reading.

CARMEL BOOK EMPORIUM - This area's newest bookshop emphasizes high quality and 60 sections (ultimately 100) and a big stone fireplace round which folks may browse contentedly. Management promises computerized ordering that assures "the best possible turnaround time."

Special attention is given to mysteries, creative writing, the lively arts - and of course the tops in contemporary fiction. Videos include such special contexts as Oscar-winning Best Pictures over the past 20 years. And PBS productions. And music tapes and CDs (local players too). Before long, Carmel Book Emporium will add a cafe - perfect meeting spot.

On Lobos Lane in The Crossroads (a few steps from Safeway). Open 10-6 Sunday/Thursday; 10-8 Friday/Saturday. 626-BOOK.

SIERRA CLUB BOOKSHOP - It's the 100th anniversary of this visionary conservation group. The Carmel shop offers Sierra Club titles, fine guidebooks, children's books, wondrous nature lore. Also greeting cards and those radiant Sierra Club calendars. Persons interested in planned outings and/or the organization's vital, planet-respecting work will find membership materials...the how and certainly the why. On Ocean between Dolores and San Carlos. 12:30 - 4:30 Monday through Saturday. 624-8032

EDUCATIONAL STUFF , INC. - It's true. Literally thousands of learning tools for youngsters from infancy to middle school age.

Developmental toys, all kinds of books, science materials, flash cards, art supplies, puzzles, teaching aids, rewards, and so on.

Ex-teacher Barbara Vantress has had the facinating spot for 11 years. Her commitments inspire the daily workways of all staff members - " each is trained to consult and recommend," says Barbara.

"Now's the perfect time to find the right projects and support materials. Prices are low to moderate - and customers always get personalized service with full product guarantees."

If you'd like one of the bright no-cost Educational Stuff catalogues, call 1-422-5044. Address: 908-1/2 South Main in Salinas. Packed with examples of excellence in research, design, overall purpose.

TOUR MONTEREY COUNTY THIS SEASON - Monterey County Place Names by Donald Clark is the perfect gift for anyone interested in beautiful Monterey County. From history buff to back-road traveller to Steinbeck scholar, there's something here for everyone.

A recent review said, "highly readable, highly informative history at its best. . . Anyone with an interest in our area should have this on their bookshelf."

Available at most local bookstores for $21.95. To have a copy shipped anywhere in the US, mail check or money order for $27.50 (paper) or $36.50 (cloth) to: Kestrel Press. P.O. Box "Q", Carmel Valley, CA 93924. (659-2807) Prices include tax and shipping.

True Confessions

"TRUE CONFESSIONS" is the first in a series of collectors prints by noted watercolorist Will Bullas. It will be on display along with his newest collection of original paintings at New Masters Gallery on Sixth Avenue near San Carlos Street in Carmel. Blessed with a tongue-incheek sense of humor, Bullas often imbues his paintings with a unique sense of whimsy. Even the titles of his works play an important role, adding to the humor in the scenes. Bullas's one-man show continues through the end of December. For more information, call 625-1511.

Go against the grain. Cut down on salt.

Adding salt to your food could subtract years from your life. Because in some people salt contributes to high blood pressure, a condition that increases your risk of heart disease.

IN MEMORIAM

1917-1991

For some years our real estate advertisement and literature have been graced by the artistic rendering of a very talented and gentle man.,

Jack Wall was well known throughout the art community for his outstanding ability and for his particularly beautiful paintings of birds and animals. He had a rare gift for capturing the essence of a subject in a moment.

Jack passed away last week while on a much deserved vacation in Hawaii. All of us at Cornish & Carey join in sending our condolences to his loved ones. He will be sorely missed.
